

WITH ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC COASTS DEFENSELESS, SENATOR LODGE OPPOSES NITRATE PLANT

Those Twenty Millions Needed to Repel Invasion,
He Says.

AGREE TO ARMY BILL REPORT

Seems to Him Incredible That Congress Would Sink Huge Sum in Nitrate When Soldiers Are Needed to Cope With Trouble on Border.

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, May 18.—After an all day debate the Senate last night agreed to the conference report on the Army Reorganization bill without a roll call. The House is expected to approve the report within a day or two, and send the first of the big national defense measures to the President.

Attacks on the provision for a government nitrate plant delayed adoption of the conference report for a time. Senator Hardwick of Georgia, in the attack, characterizing the provision as dangerous, socialist and paternal. The debate was broadened out by Senator Lodge denouncing the reduction in the Senate provision for the size of the regular army.

"With not a soldier left on the Atlantic coast from Maine to Fort Worth, today they are taking the coast artillery and the Pacific coast in the same condition—all to take care of the little trouble in Mexico," said Senator Lodge. "It seems to me practically incredible that either branch of Congress should be willing to put $20,000,000 into a nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals or some other place and not be willing to give the country soldiers enough for its immediate defense against troubles so trivial as to confront us on the border. I do not believe our congresses could have gotten more. I am thankful for what they did get, but I don't want senators here to be under the delusion that they have gotten what they should have for their country."

Senator Newlands suggested the advisability of refusing to accept the conference report "if any willing to run the risk of losing what little we have gained in this bill," responded Senator Lodge. "It didn't mean the original plan of those in the House to do absolutely nothing."

REORGANIZE FLEET

Admiral Fletcher automatically returns to his line rank of rear admiral and probably will be assigned to important staff work. Rear Admiral Dewitt C. Mason, one of the division commanders of the fleet, will become vice admiral. All the changes become effective June 1. Admiral Fletcher has completed his term as commander in chief.

MERCHANT IS FINED

Awning Hung Too Low and He is Given Hearing Before the Mayor.

A. M. Silenman, a merchant of North Pittsburgh street, was fined $2.50 by Mayor Marietta this morning, charged with maintaining a nuisance. He was notified to appear by Chief of Police R. Rottler. It is charged that the awning of his awning was hanging too low and pedestrians' hats were knocked from their heads when they passed beneath. The city ordinance requires all awnings to be 10 feet above the street.

There are complaints about other awnings along the street and in case any braces are found to be below eight feet the owner will be fined. The mayor made it plain that the fine would be more than $2.50.

WEAR OVERCOATS

Straw Hats and Heavy Wraps in Vogue in Pittsburgh Last Night.

Special to The Courier.

PITTSBURGH, May 18.—The low temperature caused Pittsburgh people to don winter wraps last night. Fur and velvet coats displaced the ladies' spring gowns while the men put on overcoats which in many instances were worn with the collars turned up. These who were attired in summer apparel observed very uncomfortable in the way of blisters that prevailed with especial severity on Fifth and Liberty avenues.

Hundreds of men wearing straw hats and overcoats presented a novel spectacle in the business section of the city.

GERMANY ADVISES ITS CITIZENS HERE TO OBEY U. S. LAWS

All Consuls to Warn Tontons
Not to Engage in Plots or Lawlessness.

WARNING COMES FROM BERLIN

German Government Makes It Clear That It Looks With Disfavor Upon the Actions of Some of Its Citizens and Sympathizers in This Country.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 18.—Germany through Count von Bernstorff has instructed all German consuls in the United States to admonish German citizens in their districts to scrupulously obey American laws. This was done in an effort to end various alleged violations of American neutrality.

The ambassador acted on instructions from Berlin. The action was announced today in this official statement from the German embassy: "In consequence of cases which have occurred of late, the German ambassador has sent instructions to all German consuls in the United States to strongly impress upon German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the state in which they reside."

It was said at the German embassy that the instructions were designed to prevent plots or lawlessness on the part of German citizens who might be disposed to engage in such. The German government, it was said, looks with great disfavor upon such conduct and desires that they shall not engage in any undertaking in any way outside the law.

It was not disclosed whether specific cases have been brought to the attention of the German government, but it was made clear that Berlin officials want the United States and its people to understand that they have not countenanced any illegal affairs with which German citizens or sympathizers in this country have been connected.

Administration officials were much interested in the statement issued by Count von Bernstorff and expressed themselves as surprised. It was said that instructions to German consuls were not the result of any action by the United States officials, though the steps might do much to relieve troublesome conditions which have manifested themselves almost since the beginning of the war. It is understood that public opinion in this country was being affected by activities of sympathizers concerned in passport frauds and bomb plots.

In the campaign the Penrose element favored an untried delegation, while the Brumbaugh faction favored the election of delegates pledged to vote for the popular choice of the voters as the party's presidential candidate.

On the Republican presidential preference ballot only one name was printed, that of Brumbaugh, and there was much interest in the extent to which voters would write on the ballot the name of the party leader whom they favored. In Philadelphia, in a local vote of 17,355, Brumbaugh got 2,375, and Hughes, 567. Some other counties report scattering votes for these candidates, but the only one outside of Philadelphia showing a vote for Ford of any consequence was Lebanon, which gave him 102 votes. Because of the great size of the ballot many counties did not tabulate the scattering presidential ballots and the official count which will be announced in about three weeks undoubtedly will disclose many votes for various favorite sons.

Revised returns from 4,659 districts out of 6,891 in the state, and which include the 1,282 Philadelphia city and county districts complete, show that the Brumbaugh-Vare element in the party, which sought to elect 12 instructed delegates-at-large, have lost their light.

The Democratic contests for United States Senator, Governor General and State Treasurer are in doubt. E. C. Pennington, candidate of the Old Guard faction for Senator, carried Philadelphia, but returns from other counties probably will show a majority for Ellis L. Orvis, backed by the Reorganization faction.

UNEARLY BIG PLOT

Revenue Collectors Said to Have Robbed U. S. of $300,000.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Christopher J. Foxman, for more than 10 years a deputy internal revenue collector, was arrested by federal authorities today on a warrant charging him with demanding and accepting bribes from tobacco dealers in return for making false reports to the government.

His arrest will be followed by that of several other collectors, it was announced by Assistant United States District Attorney McDonald, in an effort to break up a system of alleged grafting which, he said, has cost the government more than $300,000 within the last 10 days.

VERY CLOSE FIGHT ON WHOLE TICKET IN SOMERSET COUNTY

Scull Leads Delegate State Despite Bitter Personal Attacks; Penrose Ahead of Brumbaugh.

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, May 18.—Complete unofficial returns of Tuesday's primary election disclose a close fight on practically the entire Republican ticket in Somerset county. Despite bitter personal attacks made on him by the Brumbaugh forces throughout the campaign, George R. Scull leads the Penrose list of delegates at large in his home county with 1,310 votes. Penrose runs ahead of Brumbaugh, polling 1,355 votes to the Governor's 1,268.

The vote in the three cornered contest for Assembly was also close. Morris W. Speicher of Millport township, unpledged on the liquor question, leading John P. Stabler of Somerset, Local Option candidate, by 167 votes. Robert W. Lohr of Jenner township, leads the legislative ticket by a comfortable majority.

FACTIONISTS' ATTEMPT TO WREST LEADERSHIP SMASHED BY PENROSE

Wins Delegates in Battle for State Control; Snyder's
Big Vote.

PUTS HIS ENEMIES TO ROUT

Despite Determined Effort of Brumbaugh Faction, Senator Elects Auditor General by 10,000 Majority; Some Democratic Contests in Doubt.

After the most determined effort that has ever been made to overthrow his leadership of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, unofficial returns of Tuesday's primary election from the greater part of the State show that United States Senator Dole Penrose has put his opponents to ignominious rout. Despite the energetic light waged against him by the faction led by Governor Brumbaugh, Senator Penrose nominated his candidate for Auditor General of the State, Charles A. Snyder, by from 25,000 to 10,000 majority.

Late returns indicate that Governor Brumbaugh leads Senator Penrose in the voting for National Delegate-at-Large by 6,877 votes. The Governor, according to available returns, is the high man among the four Republican candidates for delegate-at-large. A local vote of 17,355, Brumbaugh got 2,375, and Hughes, 567. Some other counties report scattering votes for these candidates, but the only one outside of Philadelphia showing a vote for Ford of any consequence was Lebanon, which gave him 102 votes. Because of the great size of the ballot many counties did not tabulate the scattering presidential ballots and the official count which will be announced in about three weeks undoubtedly will disclose many votes for various favorite sons.

RAILROAD CASE DROPPED

No Further Violations of Ordinance Will be Permitted, However.

The case against the Pennsylvania railroad for keeping the Pittsburgh street crossing blocked 20 minutes Monday morning, has been dropped. Any further violations of the city ordinance requiring the train to be out after five minutes shall be prosecuted. Conductor William Doncker, called at the city hall yesterday morning, accompanied by the engineer of the train, but the mayor was out of the city. The case was explained to City Clerk Bixler who reported to Mayor Marietta this morning.

Doncker said his train was following close behind another train and it was necessary to apply the air quickly. On account of the length of the train which was made up of 30 cars, it had to be cut in several places to release the air. This took up more time than is allowed by the city ordinance. Any further cases will not be allowed to go unnotified, Mayor Marietta said. He requested Freight Agent B. C. Cook, who called at the city hall this morning to have the matter reported to the higher officials and also to see that trains did not block the crossing when children were going and coming from school.

CHAIN GANG MEMBER DESERTS TO GET A BOTTLE OF "LICKER"

As the city chain gang of 15 police court prisoners was being taken through the city to work on the streets this morning, one of the rear guard, a white man, suddenly slipped out of line as the cortege passed by a Main street bar. He and a companion had brought with them a bottle of "licker" and as they neared the third party, the man on the outside was seen to slip something that looked like coin of the realm to the one nearest the barroom door.

Patrolman M. Rulli, who was majestically following the gang, called to Chief of Police Rottler, who was in command of the second brigade, and the march was halted while the chief went in search of the deserter. A few minutes later he was brought out, and the order to march was given. It was not until Brimstone Corner was reached that Chief Rottler discovered a suspicious looking protrusion in the vicinity of the deserter's hip pocket. Investigation revealed a half pint of well known rejuvenator, commonly known as "licker."

HOWARD TAYLOR HAS HIGHEST GRADE FOR MANY YEARS IN H. S.

Howard Taylor, valedictorian of the class of 1916 of the Connellsville High School, has maintained the highest average of any student in recent years. The marks of all classes as far back as the records are kept do not show a single instance of a grade as high as that of 1916's honor student.

Young Taylor has excelled particularly in literary work. Only recently a composition written as part of his work in English was awarded high praise by W. H. Seawright, assistant principal, who declared it to be the best he had examined in his entire experience as a teacher.

WEST SIDE FIRE RESULTS

FROM YESTERDAY'S COLD

Truck Called Last Evening to Extinguish Chimney Blaze at Corner of Fourth and Main.

A chimney fire on the West Side last evening resulted from the cold spell which made it necessary to light a fire in the home of Mrs. Matilda Eccles and Mrs. W. C. Whitman on the corner of Fourth and Main streets. The fire occurred about 6:30 o'clock.

An alarm was sent in for the truck and when the firemen arrived flames were blazing from the chimney. The blaze was quickly extinguished when the men got to the roof of the building. Hearing the "wild cat" blow several times, which is something of an unusual occurrence except when there is a large fire, a large crowd was attracted, thinking that the house was burning. Only the truck responded.

The fire in the header had been allowed to die out during the hot spell, and when one was lighted it ignited soot in the chimney.

Fifteen more police court prisoners were sentenced to work out their sentences on the streets, by the mayor this morning. Four of them are to do two days and the remainder three. The gang of prisoners now numbers 20. The mayor remarked this morning that there were lots of able-bodied men among those arraigned before him.

These who work on the streets are considered considerably more than the usual lookout fare.

The colored evangelist was brought back from Youngstown, O., to face a serious charge but the case was dropped when the nuptials of the pair were arranged in Alderman Fred Munk's office. Rev. Holley had some trouble raising the costs necessary to secure his release from the city lockup and the wedding was postponed a number of times. It was finally consummated last night. Even then, it is said, the bridegroom was suffering from a shortage of funds and the alderman had to wait for his fee.

WHAT NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED

Wonderfully Speedy New Found Relief for Tired, Worn Out, Shattered, Unstrung Nervous Systems.

It is simply marvelous, the speedy relief that a single Margo Tablet will give any man or woman whose nerves are upset, unstrung or dulled, tired and aimless. Every tablet seems to go straight to the nerve cells, overcoming in just a few moments fatigue, dizziness, "jumps," "dreads," nervous indigestion and all those other symptoms of run-down nerve force that are so surely the forerunners of nervous prostration and general nervous breakdown.

Margo vitalizes your tired, over-worked nerves into nerves of steel, charging them with power of tremendous endurance and reserve energy and does it without a single dangerous drug. Margo is a scientific combination of six of the most powerful and effective, yet absolutely harmless, nerve stimulants known to chemistry and a month's systematic use should completely transform the worst nervous wreck into a strong, healthy, vigorous man or woman.

Margo really does more good in the average case of "nerves" than a month's opium because it not only "rests" the nerves but puts new snap and "ginger" and courage into your entire body.

Margo must accomplish these things or its cost is nothing. Languey Drug Co. and other leading druggists in Connelville sell it with this absolute guarantee, positively agreeing to refund the price paid to any patron who fails to derive great benefit from 60 days' faithful use.—Adv.

PITTSBURG BISHOP

Oregon Church Head Likely to be Transferred to This District.

It is said that Bishop Richard J. Cooke of Portland, Oregon, will be transferred to Pittsburgh as head of the district of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the recent bishop's conference at Linden Hall, near Dawson, it was decided to recommend Pittsburgh as an episcopal residence. The general conference now in session at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has reached no decision as to the changes in bishops but it is said on reliable authority that Bishop Cooke will be sent to Pittsburgh.

A deadlock exists in the halting for bishops. The names of 241 clergymen were placed in nomination for the seven new places on the board of bishops, hence a selection is hard to make.

The world knows how to figure results and the careful buyer at least, soon discovers whether the house they are dealing with takes up too much time in making excuses instead of delivering the goods. This is the secret of our phenomenal success. The careful buyer soon discovered that at Davidson's they could get the goods they wanted, when they wanted them, and that they would always get them at the right prices.

THE PATIENCE TO PERFECT PROCESSES IS WHAT IS NEEDED

To Bring About a Successful Development of Pennsylvania's

RESOURCES FOR MAKING DYES

From Coke By-Products: Marketing the State's Output of Coal Is Becoming a Serious Problem: Lack of Shipping Facilities Prevents Export Trade.

James H. Roderick, chief of the Department of Mines, believes that the process of manufacture is the one thing needed to the successful development of Pennsylvania's resources which are adapted to producing dyes. In a report supplementing Chief Roderick's summary of the year's work of his department he discusses this subject at length. Referring to the efforts to make up for the shortage of German dyes in this country, and the ability of our manufacturers to secure the necessary raw materials from the manufacture of by-product coke, he says:

"The conditions that existed shortly after the war began gave rise to the belief that the United States was about to launch largely into the manufacture of dyes, owing to the tremendous field opened up for such articles. It seems like an easy thing for the wide-awake American to grasp the unexpected opportunity. It meant much money and at first blind seemed very plausible. The results thus far, however, have not been very encouraging, and while the ability to produce by-products, including the numerous and very desirable dyes now made in Germany, would help to relieve the coal and coke situation, success in this direction cannot be expected for many years. It is practically a new field of endeavor for the American and one that requires patience, ability and long years of effort to bring satisfactory results."

"At the beginning of the year five hopes were entertained for an increase in the export trade of coal, but the year closed with less volume of export business than the preceding year. An encouraging phase, however, was the beginning of a certain trade with the competitive markets of the world that may develop in future to large dimensions. In some respects the progress toward the conquest of foreign trade was remarkable. Several of the great coal companies have established foreign sales offices and agents, and are acquiring ships to carry their coal. Some of them already have done so. Practically all of the companies have been obtaining credit information and in other ways preparing to enter upon foreign trade."

"Many of those who hope for markets for Pennsylvania coal other than the home market realize that there are two ways of disposing of their product. One is to ship the coal as a raw material. The other is to use it in manufacturing articles that can be sold abroad. Of the two ways the latter is deemed by some authorities to be the wiser to follow for the reason that having united with the cost of labor the cost of coal in the production of certain articles, there will be greater effort to sell them."

"More than this, the matter of transportation is a very serious one, as the ship space is extremely valuable, and the same amount of space allotted to the finished product would bring much greater return than if allotted to use low-priced raw material. Every thought on this question leads to the conclusion that it is to the interest of Pennsylvania to export coal in the form of manufactured product, rather than as a raw material. Owing to our tremendous production, however, the necessity constantly exists for disposing of the coal in the quickest possible way and for that reason the operators are inclined to resort to coal shipments rather than wait for a profit to come from the sale of manufactured articles."

DELAYING CONSUMPTION REAL COAL CONSERVATION

Is the Claim of the Advocates of the Water Power Bills Now Before Congress: Wilson May Veto.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Save the coal of the country! That is the cry which is being raised by those who are seeking to have legislation passed at this session of Congress, which would permit extensive water power development on navigable streams and in the public domain. They argue that coal is limited in amount, whereas water power is unlimited, and that if much of the power now produced by steam were of hydroelectric origin instead, the coal supply might be made to last longer and conserved for future generations. They point to the numerous ways in which electricity made by water power may be used, as for motive power and lighting, for the manufacture of fertilizers and nitric acid for explosives. These are only a few of the growing demands, they assert, for cheap power.

What Congress will finally do with the various water power bills now pending is a question, but there is a strong belief in the minds of many that President Wilson will veto any water power bills which appear to give large powers or privileges to those interests which are active in securing the passage of this legislation. The opponents of the Shields and Myers bills are being led by Clifford Pinchot, former chief of the forest service, who has declared that these bills would in all practical purposes grant the water power rights "in perpetuity" to those who secured such rights.

The water power legislation is temporarily sidetracked in both houses. A statement issued by the Water Power Development Association, says that "President Wilson, in conference with Senate and House leaders, has several times indicated a desire that Congress pass the water power bills, without going into details as to the exact form of legislation which he himself desires, and adds that 'the understanding between the administration and the leaders in Congress is that there will be no water power legislation before adjournment.'"

"The increasing introduction of steam power, diverting our coal fields at a time when millions of horse power or water power are undeveloped," said Gano Dunn of New York, an electrical engineer, here a few days ago, "is a crime against the policy of conservation. Every new steam plant is an agency devoted in effect to the practical consumption of coal which is a limited commodity. While absolutely essential for smelting and practically essential for the heating of our houses, it is not essential for the production of power."

"Steam power is consumed only when it is used, water power whether used or not. If the power of a water fall is not brought to the neighboring city to turn its wheels, do its cooking or light its lights, the power is developed just the same and expressed itself in grinding the rocks at the bottom and the wasting of the saturated water. Practically all of coal consumption would be real conservation. Postponement of water power development is real waste."

RAILROAD ORDERS

Continue Active for Equipment, Rails, Bridges and Cars.

The railroads placed orders for equipment last week, calling for approximately 220,000 tons of steel, including 155,000 tons of rails, 60,000 tons for the building of cars and locomotives and 10,000 tons for bridge and other structural work.

The car shops reported orders last week for 2,200 cars, for 1,750 underframes and for 800 center sills. The building of this rolling stock will require about 30,000 tons of steel.

GERMS ARE DANGEROUS

Do not overlook the importance of having your home entirely free from disease germs which lurk in many places even in the most modern homes and become dangerous to good health. Every home should have a bottle of hycolite antiseptic ready for instant use, as there is nothing so effective when applied to burns, scratches or bruises, because hycolite instantly kills the germs that infect the wound or bruise.

For cold mouths, for cleansing the crevices as well as the surfaces of the teeth hycolite is positively necessary. Rinse the mouth and gargle with a few drops of hycolite and you will escape throat troubles and other germ diseases and the mouth and breath will be clean and sweet.

Hycolite is used extensively in hospitals by dentists and physicians and sold by druggists most everywhere. It is the one thoroughly reliable antiseptic and should be in every home. General Laboratories, Madison, Wis.

$15,000,000 IS BEING SPENT at CLAIRTON, PA.

Do you know what a by-product Coke Oven is? You ought to know, since the Great War started, because there's been a lot said about saving the by-products. A by-product plant saves the smoke and the tar and converts them into chemical necessities. Toluol, benzol, dyestuffs, perfumes, etc., are all manufactured from these substances which heretofore we have thrown away. They all come from wasted smoke "the incense of prosperity" as we have more or less boastfully called it.

You know now how badly we need these chemicals. You know now that the waste of yesterday is the wealth of tomorrow. It follows then that the plant which produces these things, which saves them—as well as that sterling product—coke is a profitable plant and the town in which that plant is located, of necessity is a prosperous town. It means a clean place to live because we save the smoke. It means a high class of men, chemists, research men, scientific men as well as a tremendous list of the rank and file and it means continued prosperity.

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE TO GET IN ON THE PROSPERITY. BUY CLAIRTON REAL ESTATE.

We have it—right in the heart of the town—not in an undeveloped spot plotted only for the exploitation of the boomer. You can buy it cheaply in this living town, 20 miles from Pittsburgh where there is at this minute splendid train service, trolley lines, schools, churches, fine homes, banks, paved streets, adequate sewer systems and a busy flourishing community. And you can't buy it under like conditions and with such a sure future in any other place in the great Metropolitan zone of Pittsburgh.

An army of workers will be needed. We need house builders right now to provide for the needs of the increasing population and we can make them an attractive proposition to help carry them along. Five thousand people live there today and the factories and industries are humming along every day and yet, right now, today, you can buy a business property at less than $100 a foot front and a town lot for as little as $55. On a paved street, $625 will buy a 40-foot lot and you can pay for it with 10 per cent down and easy monthly payments—out of your savings—thereafter.

Clairton is Aroused. Clairton People are Buying Lots

Mr. H. R. Worthington, who is carrying through the project and is in entire personal charge of the sales frankly says that in a long real estate selling career he has never offered a better proposition.

TROTTER'S FINE RECORD

Has Won Five Consecutive Games; Laback 1-1 in Fine Form.

Trotter defeated Leisenring No. 1 at Leisenring last night by the score of 5 to 1. The game was featured by the pitching of Laback who struck out 17 batters in seven innings. Swope also pitched a nice game but Trotter made his when bats meant runs.

A number of last year's New York State League stars appeared in Leisenring's lineup but they fell before the slants of Laback. This was Trotter's fifth consecutive victory this season. Three of these Laback has pitched, striking out 44 men, allowing but four runs in 44 men, allowing but four runs against Mount Pleasant Independents at Trotter last Sunday and a one-hit game against Vaparian Yanks a few days before. Trotter has scored 51 runs so far this season while his opponents have run up only five. Trotter will play any team in the county. H. J. Barker of Trotter Works will receive challenges. Tooth Loose? Watch out for Pyorrhea!

When you find a tooth that gives back and forth, even just a little, see your dentist at once.

He will find conditions which you might overlook. He will find a gum recession, even though slight, where the gums have pulled away from the teeth. And he will tell you that you have the dread disease pyorrhea.

From pyorrhea come by far the greater part of all tooth troubles. Unless treated and checked, it will result not only in the shrinking and malformation of your gums and of the bony structure into which your teeth are set, but in the loss of the teeth themselves.

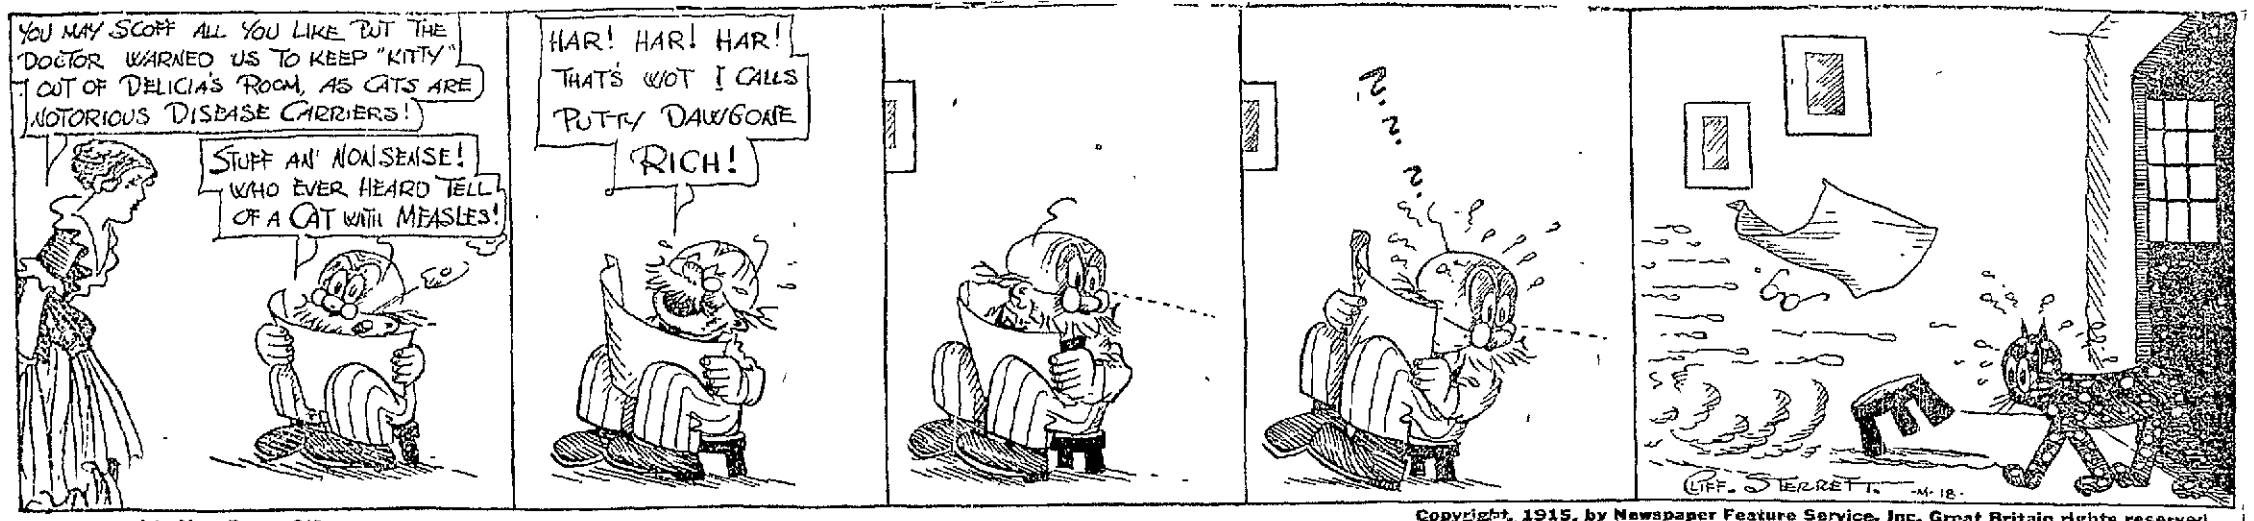

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube for 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today; or send 4c in stamps in coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Senreco Remedy Company, 561 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

NO APPEAL.

The announcement that Senator Fenimore and his friends have won the primary election by positive majorities, but that Governor Brumbaugh is likely to have the highest majority on the ticket as a Delegate-at-Large to the Republican National Convention, indicates that the people have declined to consider the latter's presidential ambitions, but that they have also refused to believe the attacks made upon him in the primary campaign and have expressed their sympathy by their votes.

The charges against Governor Brumbaugh are of a serious character, and cannot be wholly ignored, but they have no further place in politics. As a member of the Pennsylvania delegation in the highest standing the Governor will, we hope, use his influence at Chicago to promote the common purpose of the delegation, which is to nominate the most eligible man to lead the party to victory in November.

It appears that some other candidates have been nominated whose names did not appear on what was given out as the primary slate. If so, they should and will have the cordial support of the united Republican party.

The primary election is over. However mixed its results may be, loyal Republicans will not appeal from its judgments. The Courier recognizes no factions from this time forth until after the election. They have their day and hour at the primary. The People have spoken.

FURNACE BY-PRODUCTS.

Aside from utilizing the gases generated in the process of smelting comparatively little effort has been made to conserve the by-products of pig iron making. That they are rich in many elements useful in the arts has been realized by furnace engineers and others familiar with the chemical phenomena of smelting, but no successful attempt has been made to effect their recovery. In this particular the furnace industry is a step behind the allied industry of coke making. Through the development of the retort process of making many by-products have been added to the world's list of commercial substances, which, if the claims of by-product engineers are wholly supported, effect great economies in the cost of making coke.

The success of the by-product coke oven, and the growing necessity for reductions in the cost of smelting iron, have stimulated investigation along the line of applying to iron smelting some method of recovery of by-products. A former Pittsburgh district chemist has been engaged in research of the character and has progressed with his experiments to that point where he makes an announcement, which, if borne out by subsequent perfection of the process as he outlines it, means little short of a revolution in the business of iron production.

By a device, which is apparently simple in principle and operation, this investigator claims to be able to extract from the furnace gases potash in the form of cyanide, in such quantity and of such value, even on an anti-war basis, that the recovered product will virtually pay for the whole cost of smelting the iron. A further claim is made that this process renders available a much lower grade of iron than has heretofore been used, in either case coke is essential to the smelting and contributes a portion of the element which forms the valuable by-product.

There is doubtless a long road of experiment and development to be traveled before the commercial success of the new process is assured, just as there was in the development of the retort process of making coke. It is assumed, of which there is little reason to doubt, the industries of iron and coke making will both feel the stimulus of the application of advanced economies and methods.

Natural gas people want a law passed making it a crime to waste natural gas. The people who sell the natural gas know the value, at least they know how to charge their customers for it.

In Fayette county, Henry Ford also said: "A Ford car can save money."

FREE SPEECH.

The West Penn managers are frankly opposed to labor unions and they ask the court to restrain union representatives from "interfering with employees of the West Penn by the circulation and distribution of literature calculated to breed discontent, and hostility toward the company."

We would hardly think an injunction would lie for this purpose, it being in the nature of an abridgment of free speech. If there is anything in the literature being circulated which speaks falsely of the company the latter has other remedies at law. The wisdom and fairness of the demand that no union literature shall be permitted to circulate among West Penn employees is to say the least doubtful. It creates the impression among the men that there is something contained therein which is sought to be concealed from them, and they will on that account be all the more eager to receive such literature. They will furthermore resent the implied right of their employers to regulate their course of reading.

The West Penn Managers will we imagine get along better with their employees by being open and fair with them in this as they have been in other matters in times past. If the arguments of the unions are of no merit they will fall of their own weight; if they contain anything worthy of reply, the West Penn should be prepared to reason with its workmen.

The Courier holds no brief for the labor unions, but it is a thorough believer in and a constant practitioner of that fairness which it preaches.

Future practices will look more to the recovery of the by-products of iron as well as of coke. It seems that the furnacemen have been overlooking a little matter of by-product which is worth $2.00 per ton just now. On an output of 100 tons this by-product is worth $200.00. These are the same iron men who have been scolding the coke men for wasting their coke smoke and coke ashes.

Southern furnaces are taking all the coke they can get. The Southern coke operator has evidently not built more ovens than were necessary to his business.

The big slide in Somerset county on election day was on the railroad not at the polls.

The primary election is over and the ticket nominated should receive united and hearty Republican support. The people have rendered their verdict. The vote may not represent the whole of the party, or even a majority of it, but the opportunity was given everybody to vote, and from the result there is no appeal. Have off to the nominees and peace off the ticket when it is completed at Chicago.

The National Guard is to be inducted to National Preparedness.

Some of the voters seemed to think the primary election was a joke, but no candidate could be brought to think so, either before or after the voting.

The Methodists have decided on five new bishops and have commenced to vote for them, but in the Methodist Episcopal Church it is one thing to have more bishops and another thing to select them. Now, but there are many local business enterprises which find it more difficult to pay taxes because the people help to swell the dividends of the mail order canners than raise a cent out of their own pockets. They are asked to defray home town expenses.

A TARIFF PLATFORM THAT WILL INSURE PROTECTION TO AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

The American Protective Tariff League suggests the following protective tariff platform for the consideration of all political conventions of 1916:

Industrial preparedness is the basis of national strength and defensive power. This nation will be in all respects the strongest and best prepared when its labor and capital are to the fullest extent employed in the development of its resources of farm, factory, forest, fishery and mine.

Results in the past three years have again demonstrated the weakness and folly of the doctrine of tariff for revenue only, which is merely another name for Free-Trade. In the first ten months of the present tariff law, the evil consequences of the radical departure from the American policy of protection has assumed startling proportions; millions of men were wholly unemployed or working at reduced wages; there was a marked increase in the imports of foreign products which displaced the products of domestic labor and of agricultural products; hundreds of thousands of railroad workers were without employment, and more than 40,000 of railroad mileage is in the hands of receivers.

The consequent decrease in the country's purchasing power forced many thousands of American merchants into bankruptcy, the record of business failures being the greatest in the history of the United States of America. Imports of competitive products have greatly increased under the low tariff and no tariff of the present tariff law, and still continue to increase. The country was on the high road to general bankruptcy and ruin. Then came the European war as a partial antidote. It operated in some measure to limit the volume of competitive imports, and at the same time created a demand for war munitions and supplies that furnished employment for great numbers of American artisans who otherwise would have continued in idleness. Thus the greatest human slaughter in history operated to partially offset the ruinous effects of Free-Trade.

In order to provide opportunities for the employment of our constantly increasing population, the American Protective Tariff system should be one which will insure ever-expanding industries, unending employment for labor and high standards of wages and living.

In view of the conditions certain to follow the close of the greatest war in history, when foreign countries shall have resumed industrial productions which must be exported at whatever price they will bring in the markets of the world, the necessity of an adequately protective tariff to shield American labor and industry becomes imperative.

In view of the facts and conditions herein recited, all political parties can best serve their country by permanent adherence to the policy of adequate protection for American labor and industry, for American agriculture and for every form of American productive enterprise.

We favor protection to all American industries alike, that all may prosper alike.

We favor such tariff duties on imports as will adequately protect American labor and industries from unfair foreign competition to the end that this republic shall do its own work.

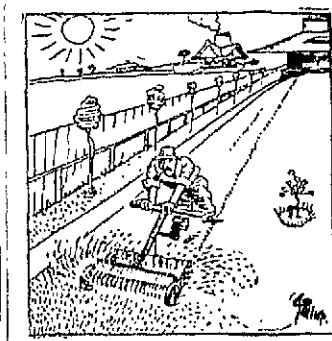

We therefore give pledge that at the earliest moment following the inauguration of a Protectionist President and the induction of a Protectionist Congress an adequately protective tariff shall be enacted.

Grass

By GEORGE BYTCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slush."

Grass is a growth of green whiskers on the face of nature, but it doesn't look as funny as the same whiskers do on an Irish ruffian. It is used for making cattle feed and sheep and for mulching can sit down on it with comfort. It is a fine (and useful) thing, and it is a good thing to have it in the quiet country lanes and back roads, but it is shy and really discouraged when he is moved to the city and is properly assisted and subsidized, however, it can be persuaded to grow in a city yard and to make a beautiful lawn. There is nothing finer to look upon than a velvet lawn of emerald green, fresh and dewy and smooth and cool. Like the man who fills his home with fine paintings and throws it open to the people, the man who persuades two blades of grass to move in on his premises, go to housekeeping and raise an extraordinary and well-manicured lawn for all the town to look at and enjoy, is a philanthropist. The little (and useful) thing, generally it is cheaper to buy this picture.

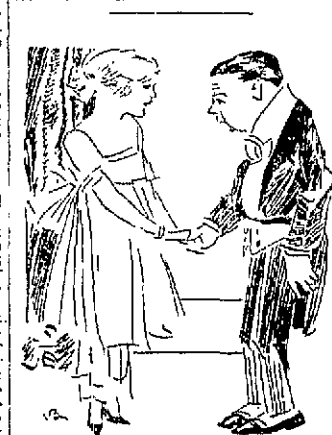

To prepare a good lawn, one should remove all the common, low-grade grass from his property to a depth of two inches. The cavity should then be cleaned, fertilized, disinfected, and provided with drainage tubes. It should then be filled with clover, sand, and clay, compacted, and then the lawn of the full black variety. A large field of blue-grass should then be planted and an experienced dermatologist should be called.

The man who persuades two blades of grass to move on his premises is a philanthropist.

be liked to sit the acid and graft, the seed into the best-prepared ground. When this is done, the grass should be watered, mowed with a roller, barbed with a mower, maintained with a roller of clover, and an experienced lawn surgeon should be retained by the year to remove from it water-grass, poison, dandelions, and weeds, and to keep it in the best condition. There are no good lawns in this country, because it is not yet old enough. In England, where they have had 800 years more to work on them, some of the green lawns are very fine indeed, and will be practically perfect in another century or two.

America is full of beautiful parks with vast lawns, which are a nuisance, because they crowd all the weeds and grass and make standing room only. A lawn likes nothing better than to be in a park, for it is a place where it can be walked upon or looked at too hard. Lawns, in fact, have practically monopolized our parks and there is a move afoot to have them taken up and replaced with green grass which will be cheaper, much more hardy and just as good looking.

DOGS CHASE DEER.

Residents near the Ore Mines have seen a deer that they think escaped from the game preserve in the mountains near the mines and are pleased at seeing one near their homes. The deer did not seem very wild until some dogs chased it through the woods nearby. An effort is being made to learn where the dogs they were and either make them keep the dogs shut up or kill them as the neighbors do not wish to have the deer annoyed.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS.

Surgeons state that men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. Connellsville people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glysterin, etc., as mixed in Adler's, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This mixture removes such surprising food matter that one suffering from almost any case constipation, sour stomach or gas. The instant, easy action of Adler's is surprising. A. A. Clarke—Adv.

Little Child Badly Chafed

Fussed all the time, healed by

Sykes Comfort POWDER

Here is proof and baby's picture

"My oldest child was badly chafed, fussed all the time, and the only way I could do anything with him was to keep him next to his skin. I tried several powders but nothing helped him until I heard of Sykes' Comfort Powder. I cannot recommend it too highly because it has healed skin affections of my children after everything else had failed."

Not a plain talcum powder, but a highly medicated preparation, unequalled for nursery and sickroom uses, to heal and prevent chafing, itching, scalding, eczema, infants' scaldhead, prickly heat, rashes, hives, bed-sores, and irritation caused by crumple dresses and bandages.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"MYRTLE THE MANICURIST"—A three part Broadway Star Feature and "The Raid," episode II of the "Strategic Case of Mary Page." are featured today at the Globe. Millions of girls grow on trees but Myrtle, the manicurist, drew one in her nail clipping impromptu and found a young fortune in her palm. After he had gone Myrtle wasn't a bit slow in using up the dough, either; and her trim torn swathed in glad rags sure does look classy. In fact so classy that wealthy Mr. Gay enlists himself to her and seals the pact with a diamond ring in the five and ten cent store. Myrtle's dream of a happy married life in a mansion on Fifth avenue is shattered when Jimmy, the bellhop, informs her that there is already one Mrs. Gay. The story is very interesting and is well acted by Jewell Hunt as the manicurist, and other star screen players. Tomorrow Marguerite Clark will be seen in "Out of the Drifts," a tale of the eternal snows, of avalanches, dizzy heights and yawning chasms. Miss Clark is a simple, unsophisticated little stork whose innocence and beauty arouse in a disreputable victor at the village which is her home, the lowest impulses of his nature. But the very ingenuousness which leads her into his trap proves her salvation, for it in turn awakens a sense of shame and repentance in the man, who as a result thoroughly changes his mode of life and makes himself worthy of her trust. Love Monday Marguerite Clark will be seen in "The Half Million Bribe," a Metro attraction. Tuesday Marie Dore will be seen in "Diplomacy," one of the greatest triumphs of the American stage.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE IRON CLAW"—Pearl White, the "Path's Fearless Pearl," as she is called, comes to the Soisson Theatre today in the second chapter of the thrilling serial, "The Iron Claw." Miss White appears as the daughter of Bruce Golden, who is returned to her father after being kidnapped for many years. To intimidate Golden into returning his daughter to his clutches, the "Iron Claw" gets fire to Golden's property by means of an electro-ray projector. Marjorie, seeing she is the cause of her father's misfortune, voluntarily returns to the "Iron Claw." "The Purple Maze," a Gold Seal two reel drama is a photograph of contrasts with Stella Razeto and Juan De Leuz in the leading roles. It is the story of a stenographer who in worldly wise and one who is an innocent country girl. The "worldly wise" one is determined that the country girl should "get in the game" and sides by many feminine tricks the country girl "comes out." "The Purple Maze" is a Rex drama with Otto Madison and Edward Hearn in the cast. It is the story of a talented girl who unknowingly weds a pickpocket. "When Sam Was Home Cured," an Inn comedy with Victor Patel as Mr. Slim who has many domestic difficulties. Tomorrow, the Emilie Molten Picture Company presents Lillian Lorraine in the five reel society drama, "Should a Wife Forgive." Lovers of intensely dramatic photoplays, depicted in a series of strikingly beautiful scenes, will be well to see this picture. Lillian Lorraine has achieved a wonderful success on the New York stage, as the star. The heart-stirring scenes are portrayed in a wonderful manner, and cannot fail to make a lasting impression, while the story told conveys its lesson in unimpeachable language. There is not a dull minute in the whole presentation.

"I'll do the best I can," she answered him, "but if he seems to be in earnest I'll renege, no matter what happens to you, Danay."

He kissed her affectionately and then Dan had a brilliant experience. He planted shots of dynamite at various places along the right of way. The first Gordon and completely covered him. Gordon, desperate, appealed to Murray O'Neill to call off Appleton and his men. O'Neill told Gordon they were following his instructions to the letter. Gordon then sought to strengthen his position through the women. He promised to marry Gloria if she returned with him. Natalie persuaded her mother not to go back unless Gordon married her immediately, which he refused to do.

CHAPTER XI.

A Place of Many Wonders.

CURTIS GORDON'S men broke camp upon his return from Omar, and by taking the east bank of the Salmon river pressed through to the upper valley. Here they recrossed to the west side and completed their survey, with the exception of the three mile gap which Dan Appleton held.

Gordon continued to stand under the sting of his defeat, however. O'Neill had got the better of him in argument, and Natalie's simplicity had proved more than a match for his powers of persuasion. At no time had he seriously considered making Mrs. Gerard his wife, but he had thought to entice the two women back under his own roof in order to humiliate both of them and their self-appointed protector. He felt sure that Natalie's return to home and her residence there would injure her seriously in the eyes of the community, and this would be a stab to O'Neill. Although he had failed for the moment he did not abandon the idea.

Gordon's business career had consisted of a series of brilliant manipulations whereby, with little to show for it, he had won financial recognition for himself. No one knew better than he the unstable foundation beneath his Alaskan enterprises, yet more than once he had turned as desperate ventures into the semblance of success. By his present operations he sought not only to bait O'Neill, but to create an appearance of opposition to both him and the race that could be colored into dollars and cents. There are in the commercial world money wolves who prey upon the weak and depend upon the spirit of compromise in their adversaries. Gordon was one of these.

By purchasing for a song the McDermost rights at Kyak he had placed himself in position to share in the benefits of the Hildebrandt breakthrough, and by rapidly acquiring his tracks about the mountain he had seemed formidable. As a means of attack upon O'Neill he adopted a procedure common in railroad building. He amended his original survey so that it crossed that of the S. R. and N. midway between the lower bridge over the Salmon river and the placiers and at that point began the hasty erection of a grade.

It was at the cost of no little inconvenience that he pushed forward a large body of men and supplies and began to lay track across the S. R. and N. right of way. If Appleton could hold a hillside, he reasoned, he himself could hold a crossing, if not permanently at least for a sufficient length of time to serve his purpose. His action came as a disagreeable surprise to Omar. These battles for crossings have been common in the history of railroad building, and they have frequently resulted in summary affairs. Toward Gordon's stronghold Murray O'Neill's men worked, laying his roadbed as straight as an arrow, and as the intervening distance decreased anxiety and speculation at Omar increased.

Among those who hung upon the rumors of the approaching clash with greatest interest was Eliza Appleton. Since Dan's departure for the front she had done her utmost best to see that he had not been deceived by the cunning of her own company. He was so imprudent in his attentions that at one moment the girl would water in her determination and in the next would believe herself succeeding beyond her hope. The game confused her emotions curiously. She accused herself of being overbold, and then she noted with horror that she was growing as sensitive to his apparent coldness as if she were really in earnest. She had not supposed that the mere acting of a sentimental role could so obscure her.

To counteract this tendency she assumed a very professional air when they set out on the following morning. She was once more Eliza Appleton, the reporter, and O'Neill in recognition of this fact explained rapidly the difficulties of the construction which he had met and overcome. As she began to understand there came to her a fuller appreciation of the man and the work he was doing. Natalie, however, could not seem to grasp the significance of the enterprise. She saw nothing beyond the open gravel roadbed, the interesting restles and bridges, and cuts and fills, the like of which she had seen many times before, and her comment was childish. O'Neill, however, appeared to find her native charms, and Eliza reflected bitterly:

"If my nose was perfectly chiseled and my eyebrows like he wouldn't care if my brain was the size of a rabbit's. Here am I, talking like a human being and really understanding him, while she sits like a Greek goddess, wondering if her hat is on straight. If ever I find a girl uglier than I am I'll make her my bosom friend." She jabbed her pencil viciously at her notebook.

The engine finally stopped. It was in the midst of a tent village beside which flowed one of the smaller branches of the Salmon. In the distance the grade stretched out across the level swampy like a thin, lately healed scar, and along its crest gravel trails were slowly creeping. An army of men like a row of ants were toiling upon it, and still farther away above the white sides of another encampment.

"That's Gordon's track," Eliza cried quickly. "Why, you're nearly up to him. How do you intend to get across?"

O'Neill nodded at the long thin line of nothing men in the distance.

"There's a loose handle in each one of those picks," he said.

"Somebody will be killed in that kind of a racket."

"That rests with Gordon. I'm going through."

"Suppose he had said that when Dan stopped him at the canyon?"

"If he'd said it and meant it he'd probably have done it. He bluffs. I don't. I have to go on, he didn't. Now lunch is served, and since this is our last glimpse of civilization I advise you to fortify yourselves. From here on you shall see nothing but the wilderness."

He led them to a spotless tent which had been newly erected at the edge of the spruce. It was smoothly stretched upon a framework of timber, its walls and floor were of dressed lumber, and within were two cots, all in clean line. There were twin washstands also, and dressers and rocking chairs, a table and a stove. On the floor beside the beds lay a number of deep, soft bear rugs. A mud was spread and glass and figured china and fresh new napery.

"How cozy! Why, it's a perfect dear of a house!" exclaimed Natalie.

"You will leave everything but your necessities here, for we are going tonight," Murray told them. "You will stay here on our way back to Kyak, and I'll warrant you'll be glad to see the place by that time."

"You built this just for us," Eliza said, accusingly.

"Yes; but it didn't take long. I phoned this morning that you were coming." He ran a critical eye over the place to see that its equipment was complete, then drew out their chairs for them.

A white confidant cook boy served a luncheon in courses, the quality of which astonished the visitors, for there was soup, a roast, delicious vegetables, crisp salad, a cucumber which O'Neill had imported for his own private use, and his own particular blend of coffee.

At last the party reached Jackson glacier. Murray O'Neill had seen the glacier many times, but always he experienced the same feeling of awe, of personal insignificance, as when he first came stumbling up that gorge more than a year before.

For a long time the girls stood gazing without a word. They seemed to have forgotten his presence.

"Well?" he said at last.

"Isn't it big? Natalie faltered, with round eyes. "It'll fall over on us!"

He shook his head. "The river is too wide for that, but when a particularly big mass drops it makes waves large enough to sweep everything before them. This bank on our right is sixty feet high, but I've seen it inundated."

Turning to Eliza, he inquired:

"What do you think of it?"

For a moment she met his eyes strangely, glorified, her eyes were shining, her fingers tightly interlocked.

"I'd like to cry or—or—scream," she said unthinkingly.

"Why, Eliza?" Natalie regarded her friend in shocked amazement, but Murray laughed.

Progress was more difficult now, for the river shore was paved with smooth, round stones, which rolled under foot, and the boats required extreme attention in the swift current. The farther they proceeded the more the ice wall opposite increased in height until at last it shut off the mountains behind. Then as they rounded the first bend a new prospect unfolded itself.

At last there came a sound like that of a cannon shot, and far ahead of them a fragment loosened itself and went plunging downward. Although it appeared small, a ridge promptly leaped out from beneath the splash and came rushing down the river's bosom toward them.

"Better go up a bit," O'Neill called to his charges.

The men at the ends of the twines scrambled part way up the shoveling bench and braced themselves, then wrapped the ropes about their waists like anchor men on a tug of war team. Their companions waded into the flood and fended the boats of the rocks.

The wave came swiftly, lifting the skiffs high upon the bank, then it swept them back amid a tangle of arums and logs. A portion of the crew suddenly was submerged again, and the boats plunged and rolled and bent themselves upon the shore, wrenching the anchor men from their posts. They were half filled with water, too, but the wave had passed and was scudding away downstream.

Eliza Appleton came stumbling back over the rock strewn bank, for during the first mad plunge she had seen O'Neill go down beneath one of the roaring craft. A man had helped him out. "Nothing but my knife," he reassured her when she reached his side. "I was dragged a bit and jammed among the bowlders." He sank down, and his lips were white with pain, but his gray eyes smiled bravely. The boatman reversed his efforts, bent and fell to rubbing the injury, while the girls looked on helplessly.

"Come, come! We can't stay here," Murray told them. He drew on the boat again to check the swelling.

of the bow! or through its cracks peered other and smaller ice bottles. The lake at its bottom was filled by as strange a navy as ever sailed the sea, for the ships were bergs, and they followed each other in senseless, senseless maneuvers, towed by the currents which swept through from the center of its own pond. They formed long battle lines, they assembled into flotillas, they fled about the circumference of a devil's whirlpool at the foot of the rapids, gyrating, bobbing, heaving until crowded out by the pressure of their rivals. Some of them were grounded, like hulks defeated in previous encounters, and along the guardian bar which imprisoned them or the outlet of the lake others were huddled, a mass of slowly dissolving wreckage.

O'Neill was helped into camp, and when his boat had been cut away he sent news of his arrival to Dan, who came like an eager bridegroom.

Appleton found his employer with one foot in a tub of hot water and his lap full of blueprints. O'Neill explained briefly the condition of affairs down the river.

"I want some one to make that crossing," he said.

"A volunteer?" asked Dan, with quickened pulses.

"Yes."

"Will I do?"

"I sent for you to give you the first chance you've been chasing so at your leisure. We must have steel laid to this point before snow flies. Every hour counts. I can't risk Mollen or McKay, for they might be disabled. I intended to take charge myself, but I won't be able to walk now for some time." He swore a little, and Dan nodded sympathetically. "I wouldn't send anybody else. I'd refuse to go myself. You understand?"

"Of course."

"If either McKay or Mollen were hurt I couldn't build the bridge, and the bridge must be built."

"If Gordon stands pat somebody may be hurt."

"Don't look for anything worse than a few broken heads, but, of course, I can't tell. I'll stand behind you with my last dollar no matter what happens."

THE COKE MARKET OF THE FUTURE LARGELY IN HANDS OF THE OPERATORS

Regulation of Production to Consumptive Demands
Will Help

PRESERVE THE TRADE BALANCE

And Stimulate Prices; By-Product Activity Will Create Cool Demand Which Will Be More Attractive Than Coke at $2.25; Prices Maintained.

Special to The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, May 17.—The coke market seems to be suffering a little despite the extreme dullness. Whatever it may be the market possesses is obviously due to reduced production rather than increased requirements, as for several weeks the furnaces have been taking less coke than they formerly did, and production is now down to the reduced requirements.

While the workmen have been responsible in part for the reduced output of the past three weeks it seems to be definitely established that there has been some voluntary curtailment on the part of operators, and predictions are made that such restriction will increase in amount until the relation between production and consumption will be such as to occasion an advance in market prices in accordance with the normal trade law of supply and demand.

The coke market of the future is largely in the hands of coke operators. No great change is to be expected through change in the volume of demand. There is not furnace capacity sufficient to effect any large increase in coke consumption, while it is quite certain that no furnace will voluntarily blow out. For months it will be a case of the blast furnace industry operating to its physical capacity, there being ample demand for pig iron and steel. As to the by-product ovens being built, construction work has been proceeding so slowly that their completion will not be much of a factor for months, while as such ovens are completed they will begin calling for coal. Sales of Connellsville coal are reported as high as $1.35, and some operators insist that such a price for coal is more attractive than $2.25 for coke.

A few sales of spot furnace coke are reported at $2.25, with $2.40 and even $2.50 is talked of in some quarters as an asking price, and some standard coke is asserted to be available at $2.25. Rumors of standard coke at less than $2.25, never fully accepted in well ported quarters, have practically disappeared.

The foundry coke market is rather dull, with an increasing disposition to offer coke at $2.50 and less disposition to hold out for $2.75, although reports indicate that the higher price is still being occasionally obtained. Most of the contracting for the period beginning July 1 was done some time ago at $3.50, and the contract market is now very quiet. The market as a whole is not quite so changed and stands as follows:

Spot furnace coke $2.25 to $2.40
Contract furnace coke $2.25 to $2.40
Spot foundry coke $2.50 to $2.75
Contract foundry coke $2.50 to $2.75

The local pig iron market is still more thoroughly dull than it was a week ago. Furnaces appear to be very firm in their views as to prices and are regarded as being well sold up, with but little tongue still available for the remainder of the year. The furnaces are still affected by the strike of molders and are talking iron on contract very well indeed considering the circumstances. Steel works appear to be well covered. It has been the expectation in many quarters for weeks past that the completion of new steel making capacity would bring out such additional consumptive requirements for pig iron as would send the market up, but the new construction is proceeding slowly, on account of labor scarcity. No one seems willing to argue that the pig iron market can decline, but there is nothing in immediate vision to put it up. Prices are as follows, not quite so changed from a week ago:

Standard $21.00 to $21.50
Basic $18.25 to $18.50
No. 2 foundry $18.00 to $18.50
Malleable $18.00 to $18.50
Forge $18.00 to $18.50

These prices are f. o. b. Valley furnaces, prices delivered Pittsburgh being higher by the 75-cent freight.

ORDERS WOODEN CARS.

Northwestern Railroad Can't Wait for Steel to be Made.

On account of the delay in delivery of steel cars, and the high prices asked for them, the Chicago & Northwestern railroad has placed an order with the American Car & Foundry Company for 1,000 wooden underframe box cars. Delivery of these cars will be completed by September, 1916. Previously this company had contracted for 1,500 cars with the same builder of a more modern type.

Much interest has been manifested in this order as it indicates the security of steel and the effect of present high prices on consumers.

TO RIDE CASE.

Owners of Industrial Railroads File Amended Complaints.

Steps toward a settling of the "industrial railroad" cases, in which the companies in the Pittsburgh district are concerned, as well as the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, have been taken before the Public Service Commission by the Carnegie and American Steel and Wire companies, which have filed amended complaints, and the National Tube Company, which has filed an amended petition.

The action is an effort to establish a basis on which to make demand for reparation.

Will Not Reuse Coal Assessments. The commissioners of Cambria county have given notice that they will make no revisions in the assessments of coal lands as returned by the several assessors.

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

The Connellsville coke trade is getting back to normal after two weeks of Easter celebration. Production of Connellsville coke stood even at 40,000 tons last week, with 50,000 tons in operation in 1916 capacity. There was no accumulation of stock coke last week. The movement was direct from oven to car which is customarily the best and most profitable operation. Six days continue to be the running time of the coke plants, though a few of the operators have been making no attempt to operate more than five days. The coke situation has cleared up in a satisfactory manner. Cars are in ample supply and the railroad managers indicate that this condition will be maintained.

The coke market is largely in the hands of the coke operators. No great change is to be expected through change in the volume of demand. There is not furnace capacity sufficient to effect any large increase in coke consumption, while it is quite certain that no furnace will voluntarily blow out. For months it will be a case of the blast furnace industry operating to its physical capacity, there being ample demand for pig iron and steel. As to the by-product ovens being built, construction work has been proceeding so slowly that their completion will not be much of a factor for months, while as such ovens are completed they will begin calling for coal. Sales of Connellsville coal are reported as high as $1.35, and some operators insist that such a price for coal is more attractive than $2.25 for coke.

IMPROVEMENT IN LABOR SITUATION HELPS STEEL

Neither Production Nor Consumption Likely to be Further Curtailed.

Market Quiet; Prices Steady.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

Labor troubles are cropping out with less frequency and the agitation that has been at the bottom of them seems to be subsiding. Last Monday was expected by certain labor leaders to develop big things in one of the important steel producing districts, but practically nothing occurred and nothing is likely to occur in the near future in that quarter. As the time from May Day passes the labor situation seems to be growing better, and serious curtailment in either the production or consumption of steel less likely. The present labor shortage, while not affecting materially the rate of production, will have an important effect upon the future, in that additions to capacity are not being brought to completion with the expected speed. Of the total new construction in progress a large part must be regarded as distinctly in anticipation of heavy demand for steel after the war.

The finished steel market is quiet in nearly all branches and on the whole the heavy current shipments are calling into the contract obligations. Specifications and actual shipments are probably piling up, though not at as great a rate as during the first quarter of the year. The general buying movement lasted longer than there was good reason to expect.

While steel prices are almost stationary they show a slight advance tendency. Thus the quotation of 2.75 on plates, formerly regarded as the actual market, has become practically nominal, and the market minimum may be regarded as 2.90, giving plates the remarkable spread of $3 a ton over bars and shapes, the high price of shapes being due to the general scarcity of steel while the extra spread for plates is due to plate demand outstripping finishing capacity.

For the next few months a steady trend to all steel orders, with few new developments marketwise, is to be expected. War steel orders, however, continue to come along freely, and there is inquiry now for a large quantity of 8-inch to 11-inch shells.

One Thing to Remember in Selecting Your Corset

—There is one thing to remember in selecting a Corset—and a most important point, too,—the same Corset will not fit every figure by any means.

In choosing her American Lady Corset, a woman should choose the model individually right for her particular body.

By no means should she select a model just because her friend favors it, for while perfect in itself, it may not be at all correct for her particular requirements.

There are American Lady Corsets here in an almost unlimited range of styles, and among them there is one or more models which will be perfect for your needs. It is the duty of our graduate enterpriser to see that you select the proper style.
